What we do

How does First Alliance Bank protect my personal information?

To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings.

We do not provide account or personal information to non-First Alliance Bank companies for the purpose of independent telemarketing or direct mail marketing of any non-financial products or services of those companies.

How does First Alliance Bank collect my personal information?

We collect your personal information, for example, when you

- open an account or use your credit/debit card
- apply for a loan or provide employment information
- make deposits or withdrawals from your account

We also collect your personal information from others, such as credit bureaus, affiliates, or other companies.

Why can't I limit all sharing?

Federal law gives you the right to limit only

- sharing for affiliates every day business purposes- information about your creditworthiness
- affiliates from using your information to market to you
- sharing for nonaffiliates to market to you

State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing.
